Director's Note

In my opinion, FASS directors should not be allowed to write program notes because one of these days one of us might be unable to stifle the temptation to start raving incoherently about the roadblocks and restrictions placed upon us.

Instead, we FASS directors are supposed to speak glowingly about how great everyone was to work with, how funny the script is, how good the performances are, and what neat things the tech shop came up with. Fortunately for me, these things are easy to say because they are true. I hope that as you are watching, you can appreciate how much fun everybody is having doing the show and that you may some day want to actually take part in the show yourself. In the meantime, enjoy the show!

Preston Gurd /Director 1993

Writers

Thanks to all the people who contributed to this play. Thanks to the writers who suffered through all my blunders while I was learning what this job required. Thanks to the cast and crew for breathing life into the printed word. Thanks to Preston for making sure it all came together. Thanks to you folks for coming to see the show. Without you it would all be pretty pointless.

Thank you to Jim, for the beginning and the end, James, for the bits in between, and Paul -- one could not ask for a better President, or friend.

Lee Weiner /Chief Scriptwriter 1993
